A LICENSE FOR DRIVERS OF AUTOMOBILES

There has been a demand for an automobile driver's license law in Ohio from many quarters. Death and accident records this year from highway accidents continue to mount. Several states have such laws and have enforced them but still the death and accident list grows larger each year. There is but one answer to all this—an over abundance of speed built in the cars by the manufacturers and wreckless driving.

We have no objection to a law such as has been passed by the legislature other than the fee plan. It seems that every time the legislature turns around there is a special fee or a new tax hung around the necks of the people. Worst of all none of these small fees go to the municipalities, townships or counties but to the state to pay the salaries of a new set of appointed officials. Such licenses could be issued by local officials and the fees turned into local funds but it seems members of the legislature, when they get inside the corporation limits of Columbus, feel that the state is in Franklin county and the other 87 counties in Ohio belong to neighboring states. Every other taxing district needs even the small fee revenue and not even the state needs more salaries officials.

It makes no difference what law you pass if the public flouts it. You recall that highway patrolmen were pictured as the answer to all thefts, bank robberies, chicken-stealing, bootlegging. So far as we recall not a single bank robber, even those who commit the act at high noon, have yet been apprehended by the highway patrolman.

When the citizens of the state as well as members of the legislature learn that mere passage of a law will not cure an evil, we may get some place. It is almost a proven fact that the more laws we have the more are broken and greater becomes the tendency for disrespect for all law.

Real enforcement on the highway can only be self-enforcement. Death and destruction on streets and highways will practically cease when every driver, pedestrian as well, becomes his own agent of enforcement.

WHY AMERICAN BUSINESS IS AFRAID

During the past year, substantial and sustained improvement has taken place in almost all lines of business. That fact, encouraging and welcome as it is, should not blind us to the equally important fact that governmental policies are preventing industries from making even greater progress toward recovery.

Today business is afraid—and its fears are justified and logical. It is afraid of our almost incredible volume of governmental spending, which is reflected in a staggering public debt and inevitably higher taxes.

It is afraid of governmental competition in fields of private endeavor.

It is afraid of governmental interference in private affairs that tends to take business management out of the hands of the owners of property and put it in the hands of bureaucrats actuated by partisan and political motives.

It is afraid of alien policies which are variously described as socialistic, communistic and fascistic—and which, whatever their proper labeling, are directly opposed to the ancient American principle of private enterprise and individual initiative.

When men are plagued by such fears as these, they are hesitant to put money into productive enterprises, knowing that tax or legislative acts may deprive them of any reward. They lose the surge of ambition, the aggressiveness, the desire for achievement that makes great industries, no less than great empires. They are unwilling to take the necessary and unavoidable risks that attach to all commercial enterprises when their ordinary chance of success is lessened or eliminated by artificial governmental restrictions.

Give business a fair deal—and it will go ahead at a breathtaking pace. Continue to stifle business, to regard all business men as cheats and profiteers, and real and permanent prosperity must become the idlest of dreams.

SUPREME COURT REMOVES NEW DEAL CORNER STONE

The decision of the Supreme Court in enjoining the collection of processing taxes on rice, places that whole AAA program in a tottering position and removes a corner stone of the brain-truster structure. While the decision is not final the point at issue was an amendment to the AAA as passed by congress when there were suspicions in New Deal circles that the original law might not stand the test of the courts. The injunction issued Monday is temporary until the court passes on other features of the law.

No other decision can be expected until after December 9th when the court convenes again. Other cases involve processing taxes on corn, wheat, cotton and pork. A weakness in the cotton act is that a railroad cannot receive for shipment cotton that has not a government label. When a staple product like cotton produced by an individual grower is placed in a classification like dynamite, opiates and liquor, then we have reached the stage when individual property rights have been lost to each citizen in the nation.

The weakness of the AAA relating to pork is that the small packer was being forced out of business due to the fact that his capital investment would not permit credit at banks under government rules. Only about four packing companies in the country were financially able to borrow to care for the processing taxes which the packer owed when the hogs were received over the scales but payable at the end of the month. In as much as most requires from 90 to 100 days for curing, packers were denied the use of borrowed funds but were forced to pay interest during that period before the meat reached the distributor or retailer. The position of the packer has been like the farmer had the law made it mandatory for the farmer to pay the tax before he received his pay for the shipment.

One of the debatable questions in regard to processing taxes has been as to who really paid them. In farm circles there has been a feeling that the taxes were taken from the market price of hogs, that is packers were not paying top prices the market demanded but holding back to get the processing tax in that manner. From the retailer angle the taxes come with the price of meat and of course the consumer paid the same way to the retailer.

Much of the argument and ill feeling caused from the AAA method has been brought about by the bungled up and crude drawing of the law. It has never been made plain in court and of course the average citizen had to accept or choose from the various interpretations. The agricultural department has been responsible for more public sentiment against the law than will any court decision be. From the first it was broadcast what the law would do. Then came the drouth. The Agricultural Department realizing by this time the unpopularity of the act especially in urban centers, found a new alibi in putting all the ills of the law on the drouth.

The law drawn as it has been, sentiment of the public as it is, there can be little more expected than the whole program may not stand a test in the highest court.

When a New Jersey school board changed the name of a high school by adding "Theodore" to Roosevelt, we are reminded that a certain Roosevelt dropped the name of "Hoover" for Boulder Dam.

We like to quote Gen. Hugh Johnson now and then for the benefit of the New Deal followers that not so many months ago looked upon him as a Moses. Now that Johnson is traveling the country making speeches against the New Deal a reference to what he says should be worth something. Early this week Johnson stated that New Deal spending as it had been would not bankrupt but disrupt the nation within eight months. We presume Johnson means at that time the Roosevelt depression would be underway and that ten years would be a short time to expect recovery.

One could not expect much relief from taxation after reading the list of recommendations in the resolutions passed at the last annual meeting of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation. "No New Taxes" was not one of the planks in the bureau resolutions. We would hardly think so when the organization benefits directly and indirectly through tax money appropriated by the legislature. Those who know something about the inside of Farm Bureau operation would hardly believe the leaders would have the agricultural appropriation bill laid before the citizens of the state showing them by item how much money the department gets and who draws the salaries and how much. Another state department that never bothers much about cost of government and that is the Conservation branch that reaps a fine harvest with each session of the legislature heading several hundred thousand dollars in various license fees to spend. Neither organization has ever preached "No New Taxes."

"Come In" says Gov. Davey to his Democratic opponents, including Sir Franklin and "Call Me Jim."

"I'm In" says Charles Sawyer, who announced Monday as a candidate for the Democratic nomination next May.

The Davey Democrats in Ohio were expecting Sawyer to announce but probably not at this time in view of the reported demand of Farley that Davey publicly decline to run before January 1.

Davey is known in his party circles as an outcast organization governor. Sawyer, who was defeated at the last primary by Davey had organization support but lost the nomination with a third candidate, Wm. Pickrel, Dayton, who ran third.

Davey had not been in office but a few days until he scorched the New Deal by exposing the corruption and rottenness in the Roosevelt relief program. This brought down the wrath of the Dictator as a reward that usually falls to those who dare to oppose powerful political forces.

Under all the ordinary rules of the game Davey is entitled to a second nomination but he faces a hard fight to get it. Sawyer has a large following and a fine record as lieutenant governor. He is the owner of several newspapers, has large business interests besides being a large land owner. Is recognized as one of the outstanding attorneys in Ohio.

Should Sawyer secure the nomination Attorney General John Bricker as the Republican nominee would have no "walk away." It behooves the Attorney General to be cautious of his own party leadership.

In political circles predictions indicate Bricker could defeat Davey with the Roosevelt crowd doubting a party nominee for governor, which would happen. With Charles Sawyer the Democratic nominee, the Davey followers could hardly defeat him. Bricker would have trouble holding several large counties in line against Sawyer.

From the Cradle to the Grave Taxes

Here are two stanzas from a verse that has been making the rounds recently:

"When you light the evening lamp
You pay a tax.

When you buy a postage stamp
You pay a tax.

When you buy the baby clothes,
When you read the morning news,
When you buy a pair of shoes,
You pay a tax.

"When you buy an ice cream cone
You pay a tax.

For the water that you drink
You pay a tax.

When you buy a loaf of bread,
When the doctor says you're dead,
When the final prayers are said,
You pay a tax."

It is doubtful if sadder or truer words were ever penned. Taxes begin with the cradle and end only in the grave. And today we are taxed more heavily, and in more ways, than we ever were before. Sit down some time and reflect on the taxes, indirect and direct, that you must pay in the course of any day's normal activities—and you'll get some idea of how necessary real tax reduction is.

Temperance Notes

Cedarville W. C. T. U.

Recently a distillers' corporation published a display advertisement which stated that "Liquor has no place in the front seat of an automobile." An exchange discussed the question where liquor would have a fitting place, and reached the logical conclusion that "Experience is emphatically teaching the American people that liquor does not successfully mix with anything." The editor said in part that liquor has no place behind "powerful locomotives which carry streamline trains at a speed of 150 to 200 miles an hour; not at the controls of the airplanes which span the continent between sunrise and sunset; not at the guiding centers of any of the multitude of delicate and intricate machinery found in all industrial and manufacturing plants. Neither does it belong in the surgeon whose operating knife, varying an infinitesimal fraction from true, may mean death to the patient; nor in the doctor whose unclouded diagnosis is needed to heal and save life."

Firemen Drink While Theater Burns

Volunteer firemen in California's exclusive artist colony, Carmel-by-the-Sea, recently allowed the famed "Theater of the Golden Bough" to be destroyed by fire while they gorged themselves with wine, a barrel having been donated by a generous citizen. The loss was said to have totaled $75,000, because of the "sport" of the "firefighters," joined by a number of artists and writers.

What sort of an athlete is the one who will assert that a drink or two of whiskey or beer taken just as he engages in sport will better fit him for endurance and victory? What sort of a man is a father who will indulge in a drink or two after putting his family in the car and tell them that the intoxicant better fits him to drive the car? And yet liquor manufacturers persistently extol their products as of "great benefit to humanity"—using magazines and newspapers and the radio to broadcast their false statements.

SUPREME COURT HANDS DOWN IMPORTANT DECISION

The Ohio Supreme Court on Wednesday handed down an important decision on defaulting of bonds by taxing districts in Ohio. The decision covers all taxing districts where bonds are outstanding or defaulted.

The case was a suit against Brooklyn, a village in Cuyahoga county, that defaulted on bonds and interest.

The Court held that the village must apply all money in its Treasury, not appropriated for other purposes, to payment of interest accruals and past due bond principal.

Municipal officials must make sufficient levy within the ten mill limit to pay all past due bond charges even if there are no funds for other operating purposes. If ten mills are insufficient then within the fifteen-mill limitation to discharge the obligations.

Hundreds of taxing districts in the state have defaulted on bonds and interest and the legislature has not given sufficient revenue for that purpose. Under the decision even schools could not operate until bond requirements were met in full.

CENTRAL PLAN FOR RELIEF ADOPTED BY COUNTY

By invitation of the County Commissioners members of the different boards of township trustees and clerks met Wednesday in Xenia with the board to consider the problem of relief after the Roosevelt New Dealers found it a "hot potato." The government will stop the "dole" Dec. 1. A skeleton unit will be maintained on the theory that the federal government will pay the cost of administering relief. The New Dealers want to keep close control of expenditures for vote-getting purposes at the expense of each county in the state. The government threatened that if the county did not continue the brain-trusted set-up there would be no distribution of free food surpluses.

While the government states that it goes out of the "dole" business on December 1st, county and township officials were threatened into following the brain-truster plan.

Meantime farmers that have been without labor for corn husking due to the relief program, can get their corn husked and under cover from storm damage the best way he can, if at all.

The statement has been made in answer to criticism of the whole relief program that the farmer has no reason to complain when the government is paying him to raise nothing.

COLLEGE NEWS

Sunday evening, November 24, the following program was presented at Yellow Springs in the Methodist Episcopal Church by the Cedarville College Gospel Team, led by James Floyd: Prelude by Eugene Corry, Scripture and prayer by Albert Grube, special music by the College Male Quartet, and talks on "Peace and Thanksgiving" by Paul Angell and Paul McLaughlin.

Tuesday morning, in the chapel, the Dramatics Club presented the play, "Sauce for the Gossings." The play was well presented and the faculty and students enjoyed it.

The Junior class, together with their friends and Mr. and Mrs. Hostetter, motored to the Knott home Monday evening to enjoy a Thanksgiving feed.

It certainly was a feed! There was everything to eat that one could want. After we had eaten all the pheasant, chicken, rabbit and their trimmings that we could hold, here they came with ice cream and cake.

After all the food was put away and dishes cleaned up, we enjoyed various contests.

The visitors made the remark that it was the best feed that any class of the College has ever had.

The College Quartet accompanied Dr. McChesney to Kiwanis Club in Xenia, Tuesday night. Dr. McChesney spoke on "Our Debt" and the Quartet sang six numbers accompanied by Mrs. Margaret J. Work.

Howard Boyd Ward, an executive of the Ward Baking Company, and son of the late Robert B. Ward, founder of the company died of heart trouble recently at his home in New Rochelle, N. Y. Mr. Ward was a former student of Cedarville College.

The Cedrus Staff will present "The Quest" as its annual play December 10 at 8:15 p. m. in the Cedarville Opera House. The cast is as follows: Joseph West, Harriet Ritenour, Russell Murray, Hazel Nelson, Ruth Kimble, John Tobias, James Anderson, Dorothy Anderson, and Keith Wright.

Come to "The Quest!" It will be an evening well spent.

The C. H. S. basketball squads are showing much improvement since last season, having won all interscholastic games thus far this season. The high school band, clad in their red and white uniforms, played during the evening. A special feature of the evening's entertainment was a tap dance by Eugene Willis, who pleased the crowd very much.

The attendance at this first home game was splendid. Receipts for the evening totaled fifty-three ($53.00) dollars. C. H. S. appreciates the fine support which the community gives to all phases of its work.

Will Rogers' Last Picture Coming To Regent In Springfield, Friday

You may have imagined how Will Rogers would have looked wearing a hot-wing collar, dress tie, stiff-front shirt and silk-lapel of Tuxedo, but the enjoyment of actually seeing the great humorist as dressed in one of the rare treats the public will enjoy when they see his last great motion picture, "In Old Kentucky," which will be shown at the Regent theater, in Springfield, one week starting Friday, Nov. 29.

Rogers completed "In Old Kentucky" shortly before his untimely death. The picture, filmed by Fox, who made all his shows, is being released this week after a delay of more than a month during which many "releases" were made.

The story is one of racing thoroughbreds, romance in the blue grass country of old Kentucky and down-to-earth humor for which Rogers was famous. Will crashes a big society ball on the eve of Derby Day and all his friends are amazed when he walks in fully dressed in the latest evening apparel.

He "wrecks" the party when he puts on a special tap dance number and believes that he can dance better than he could sing. Bill Robinson, colored star famous for his dancing feet, plays the role of Rogers' stable boy. Robinson teaches the humorist all the tricks of fancy dancing and when Will "turns on the heat" at the big party he "stops the show."

The picture reaches the most thrilling and exciting climax ever given any Rogers film when his poor, crippled race horse wins the big Derby through a trick of the Gods. "In Old Kentucky" is declared by New York and Hollywood critics who have seen it at private advance screenings, to be the greatest of all Will Rogers' pictures.

It is expected to set an all-time theater attendance record in America. The Regent will offer a premier showing of the film at 11 P. M. Thanksgiving night in advance of its regular week's run.

Lesson for December 1

EZRA'S MISSION TO JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Ezra 7:1-10; 8:1-23, 25

GOLDEN TEXT—The hand of our God is upon all them for good that seek him. Ezra 8:22

PRIMARY TOPIC—Bringing Gifts to God's House

JUNIOR TOPIC—Ezra's Long Journey

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How God Helps

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Purposeful Prayer and Courageous Action

1. Who Ezra Was (7:1-10).

a. He was from the line which was to stand between God and the people. The leader of the first company was Zerubbabel, a sort of military governor. The great need now was for a religious leader, for the people had gone far from God, as we see from the noble reformation which Ezra effected.

2. A ready scribe (7:6). He was a teacher of the law of God.

3. His high ambition (7:10).

a. He set his heart to seek the law of the Lord (7:10). He set out definitely with the purpose to do God's Word. No one who purposes in his heart to seek the law of the Lord can fail.

b. He set his heart to obey the Lord (7:10). He was not only concerned with knowing God's Word but obeying it. God's Word cannot be known in its fullness by the intellect; it must be experienced. An essential qualification for a teacher of the Bible, a preacher, or Sunday school worker, is obedience to God's Word.

c. He set his heart to teach in Israel God's statutes and judgments (7:10). He not only had a love for God's Word but a desire to implant it in the hearts of others.

4. Ezra's Commission (7:11-26).

Ezra went forth backed by the decree from King Artaxerxes. The king gave him a copy of the decree which authorized him to lead a company back to Jerusalem. This decree empowered him to:

1. Collect funds (7:15, 16);

2. Levy tribute (7:21, 22);

3. Appoint magistrates and judges (7:25);

4. Execute penalties (7:26).

So great was the king's confidence in Ezra that he delegated all these powers to him. For this great favor Ezra lifted his heart to God in thanksgiving (7:27, 28). He was mainly concerned with the fact that he was to beautify the Lord's house and acknowledge that God had put his purpose into the king's heart.

III. The Company Which Returned With Ezra (8:1-20).

This company was comparatively small, only 1,754 males, but including the women, children and servants there were perhaps 6,000 or 7,000 people. Before proceeding on the journey Ezra was careful to find out as to whether any of the Levites, the ministers of God, were with them (7:15). He knew that the success of their enterprise depended upon the spiritual condition of the people. Temporal blessings and prosperity of the individual and the nation depend upon the people's attitude toward God.

IV. Ezra's Prayer and Fasting (8:21-23).

The first thing that he did was to seek God's guidance. The reason Ezra sought the Lord's help was that as far as possible he desired his mission to be free from human dependence. He did not minimize the dangers attending the journey, but since he had assured the king that the hand of the Lord would be upon all for good who sought him, he was ashamed to ask the king for a military escort to protect them from the marauding Arabs. His desire was to prove the reality of God's help, as God's honor among the heathen was at stake.

V. The Successful Journey (8:24-32).

God heard their prayer. The treasure entrusted to them was great. Perhaps the entire value of money and sacred utensils was nearly five million dollars. For a small caravan to go through a country infested by these robber bands carrying such an amount of money was most perilous, but Ezra knew that God was able and would protect them. Observe:

1. The care and honesty (7:24-30). The money was weighed into them at the start and was to be weighed when turned over to the authorities at Jerusalem. The incentive to honest and strict accounting of the trust was that they were holy men and were entrusted with that which belonged to God.

2. Their safe arrival (7:31, 32). Some four and one-half months were required to make the journey. God brought them safely to their destination, thus proving that he is faithful to those who put their trust in him.

Perfect Love

Perfect love is distinguished by the character of its enjoyments. It craves the spiritual, the holy and Divine. Its enjoyments are purely religious; they are sought by prayer, reading the Scriptures, pious meditations and acts of Christian duty and usefulness. The enjoyments of a pure heart are sweet, rational and unvarying.

Objections

Nothing will ever be attempted if all possible objections must first be overcome.—Johnson

Tax Legislation By Sen. Yoder

Sen. Paul P. Yoder, (D.) Montgomery county, outstanding leader in the Ohio Legislature, in a series of articles in the Cincinnati Times-Star, gives some insight to what the legislature faces on tax legislation. The following is worthy of consideration.

TAX LEGISLATION

In considering governmental finance and taxation you will find as many sets of figures as there are purposes, ideas and desired results. You will also hear today as many definitions for money as there are ideas and purposes. However, government exists from taxation. Taxation is an assessed collection from the people and on the people for the support of government. So, government money is the people's money and has the same value.

The question of taxation has become complicated because nearly all groups and classifications of people have taken the attitude of "Don't tax me, tax that fellow behind the tree." Likewise, governmental finance has only become complicated because nearly all groups have taken the attitude, "This is a very important function and must have the lion's share." The result of all this is a series of contests between organized minorities, each with a definite objective, but without regard for the general situation.

All Have Appeal

In all probability you have been or are, a part of some organized group which has banded every effort for "adequate appropriations for the care of crippled children" or "vote for the hospital levy" or "adequate funds for historical Fort St. Clair" or "vote for the bond issue for a new fire equipment" or "more and better educational facilities for our children." All of these projects I could heartily endorse as very meritorious. Yet they all cost money—tax dollars. You could also endorse many things in your home or business that would be useful and helpful, which also would become necessary after they were customary. In your home or business you plan over a period of years, while in your own affairs you do not expect all things at one time, even in prosperity years. Organized minorities usually demand all things at once.

Government is just as costly as the voters make it—no more, no less. I have seen organized minorities get rather rampant because they did not get what they wanted, when they wanted it. I have been a party to such rampant organization—probably you have, too. Personally, we would not become so rampant if we understood the whole situation. Every organized minority can also point to some source—not themselves—the other fellow behind the tree, where the money could be raised by taxation to satisfy their demands. By the same token, while your organization is pointing to the other fellow, the other fellow is pointing to you. The people elect their government, not as their overlords, but as the groundkeepers—the referee and the umpire in their games of life. The trouble is, too many organized minorities demand and get pledges from candidates before they are elected and before they have had an opportunity to attain a general vision of governmental functions and before they can be expected to set up a planned program.

You have also probably been a part of an organization which has had for its purpose "tax reductions." Thereby you were in the position of opposing yourself while the governmental officials were left to wonder which was which, I have found myself in all three classifications.

Only A Few Dollars

"But," one hears, "this will cost only a few dollars—so few the money would not be missed." Multiply that idea by 1,000 and you will have the taxes grow and grow. One day last winter a capital reporter remarked, after listening to many such proposals, "When, oh, when will be taxpayers of this State ever woken up?" Columbus is usually swarming with advocates of tax-spendng ideas—pet hobbies. Only recently has there been any concentrated effort on the part of taxpayers to resist. Taxpayers have long sat at home and complained, but with little or no continuity of effort. Tax-levying officials felt the resistance of the taxpayers, but the tax-spenders were ever present with their arguments, pressure, and, often, threats.

There are still other elements, some of which use one or more popular subjects as bait to the public, to elect their candidates whether they are qualified or not. We all know people who have voted for or against candidates because they favored "wet" or "dry" or "labor" or "anti-labor," or many other subjects, without regard to the candidate's ability or lack of ability in dealing with 900 other subjects, including taxation, which this same candidate, after becoming one of your officials, has to deal with.

This is one reason why no government ever gets enough money—why you hear so much about the need for more taxes, more money to spend.

FIRST THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

By GEORGE WASHINGTON, 1789

"NOW, therefore, I do recommend and assign Thursday, the 26th day of November next; to be devoted by the people of these states to the services of that great and Glorious Being, who is the beneficent Author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be. That we may then all unite in the rendering unto Him our sincere and humble thanks for His kind care and protection of the people of this country previous to their becoming a nation—for the single and manifold mercies, and for the favorable interpretation of His providence, in the course and conclusion of the late war."
